MINNEAPOLIS, MINNESOTA August 19, 2008 Business News

(PRLEAP.COM) Twin Cities, Minnesota-Venture Development-Minnesota's premier mortgage broker has begun to offer a new corporate mortgage and real estate benefits program directly to Minnesota businesses. HR directors and business owners will want to offer this new employee benefit to all of their employees. Patti Mazzara is the director of Venture Development's benefits program and will work to integrate this into a sponsoring company's suite of existing management and business benefits.

Corporate America continues to ask human resource directors and corporations to provide more employee benefits. Ideally, any new program that benefits employees will be done at low to no cost to the company. This is where Venture Development's new offering of this company corporate benefits program excels. Through a partnership with HomeBenefitIQ and local service providers, Venture has sourced discounts that will benefit employees that are looking to obtain a mortgage or finance a home. The discounted services that are offered through the program will apply whether the employee is looking for a first mortgage, second mortgage, or reverse mortgage for either a purchase or refinance.

Unlike traditional retirement benefits or insurance benefits that cost employers to implement, sponsorship of this benefit and promotion within the organization is all that is required to obtain the discounts. Corporate sponsorship and promotional material as well as onsite educational classes are provided free of charge. Each sponsoring company is assigned their unique login and password to allow them access to the main corporate mortgage and real estate benefits website. The website and login information is then distributed to the sponsor's employees. View an example at <http://www.MinnesotaCorporateMortgage.com> use the word Minnesota as both your login and password. Corporate strategy often involves creating a work environment that retains employees. This employee benefit will help create that environment.
